of Lord Brougham:

"Standing in the narrow Gothic, railed-off space reserved for the public—the throne at the opposite extremity of the House—you may see on one of the benches to the right, 12 o'clock, M., proceed to sell at public auction, Collars, and many new and desiral almost every afternoon, Saturday and Sunday excepted, during the session, a very old fice, in the city of Alexandria, Va., a valuable man with a white head, and attired in a TRACT of LAND and FISHERY, situate in the simple frock and trowsers of shepherd's plaid. It is a leonine head, and the white locks are bushy and profuse. So, too, the eyesbrows, penthouses to eyes somewhat weak now, but that can flash fire yet upon occasions. The face is plowed with wrinkles, as well it may be, for the old man will of sale, the purchaser giving bond, with good pernever see four-score years again, and of these, three-score, at the least, have been spent in study and the hardest labor, mental and physical. The nose is a marvel-protuberant, rugose, aggressive, inquiring and defiant, unlovely, but intellectual. There is a trumpet mouth, a belligerent mouth, projecting and self-asserting; largish ears, and on chin or cheeks no vestige of hair. Not a beautiful man this on any theory of beauty, Hogarthesque, Ruskinesque, Winclemanesque, or otherwise. Rather a shaggy, gnarled, battered, weather-beaten, ugly, faithful, Scotch-colly type. Not a soft, imploring, yielding face. Rather a tearing, mocking, pugnacious cast of countenance. The mouth is fashioned to the saying of harsh, hard, impertinent things,-not cruel but downright; but never to whisper compliments, or simper out platitudes. A nose, too, that can snuff the battle afar off, and with dilated nostrils breathe forth a glory that is sometimes terrible; but not a nose for a pouncetbox, or a Covent Garden bouquet, or a flacon of Frangipani. Would not care much for trifles either, I think, or the delicate aroma of sparkling Moselle. Would prefer onions, or strongly infused malt and hops; something honest and unsophisticated. Watch this old man narrowly, young visitor to the Lords. Scan his furrowed visage. Mark his old angular ways and gestures, passing uncouth. Now he crouches very dog-like on his crimson bench; clasps one shepherd's plaid leg in both his hands, Botherem, Q. C., is taking nonsense, I think. Now the legs are crossed, and the hands thrown behind; now be digs his elbows into the little Gothic writing table before him, and buries the hands in that puissant white hair of his .-The quiddities of Floarem, Q. C., are behind human patience. Then with a wrench, a wriggle, a shake, a half turn and half start up-still very dog-like, but of the Newfoundland rather—now, he asks a lawyer or a witness a question. Question very sharp and to the point, not often complimentary by times, and couched in that which is neither broad Scotch nor Northumbrian burr, but a rebellious mixture of the two. Mark him well, eye him closely; you have not much time to lose. Alas! the giant is very old; though with frame yet unenfeebled, with intellect yet gloriously unclouded. But the sands are running, ever running. Watch him, mark him, eye him, score him on your mind tablets, then home; and in after years it may be your lot to tell your children, that once may be your lot to tell your children, that once executed by T. W. Smith and wife, dated the Carpetings, which will be sold as above. at least, you have seen with your own eyes 9th day of March, 1853, the undersigned will, on the famous Lord of Yaux; once listened to the EIGHTEENTH DAY of FEBRUARY, 1860, ry Brougham." GREAT WEDDING AT ST. LOUIS. The St. Louis Republican comes to us with a full and very able report of the great wedding of Mr. Timothy McKillgubbin and Miss Sophia Slimlichfoot, of that city. One paper alone employed nineteen reporters to procure the fullest particulars of the affair, stimula ted to this enterprise, no doubt, by the uncounted affluence of the unhappy bridegroom and his rather novel choice of one of the fair daughters of the Rhine, together with other circumstances too wearisome to enumerate, which made this wedding an event of remarkable hugeness, justifying the papers in giving all the interesting particulars.

Timothy McKillgubbin, is a native, as his deliverance to millions pining in slavery and hearing in a Walhalla of wise heroes, after name would indicate, of one of the cantons of Greece. His mother never had but one child-a boy-and by a coincidence, Timothy was that child. He was exceedingly young at the time of his birth, and is, consequently, now in his forty-third year The splendors unmatchable of the bride's trosseau are thus faithfully given. One green and red cotton dress, single skirt, illustrated with a representation of the Harper's Ferry invasion, and a correct likeness of Ossawatomie Brown.

One stripped ditto, with two flounces and a tuck [antique.]
One copper-colored calico, to be worn with a belt [more antique.] One plain barreled gingham, trimmed with black tape new. Four Alabama silk hemmed chemises, plain. Three nocturnal robes, same material. One crimson flannel skirt, quilted.

Two crimson flannel skirts, unquilted.

One seamless cotton bathing ditto.

One heavy calico [three ply.] One expansion skirt. One expansion skirt, (more so.) Another of the same kind. One pair of calf brogans, (No. 8.) One pair kip. India rubber over shoes. One pair woolen mits. One bonnet, straw. One do. gingham, (sun.) One red silk ditto.

Two cotton handkerchiefs, hemmed. One corset fastened in front. One corset fastened behind. Four pounds cotton. Three pair worsted stockings. Three pair white cotton do.

Nine best steel hair pins. One pair guttapercha garters. One hundred copies Missouri Republican, (for bustles.) One fine-tooth comb.

Sixteen bottles Macassar oil. Two boxes scented charcoal dentifrice. One pair braces. Half-dozen leather shoe strings.
